Social Migrator for SharePoint

Social platform migration made simple

Many organizations have found themselves managing separate collaboration platforms for their corporate social network and content management systems and now want to standardize on Microsoft's SharePoint platform. For IBM Connection users, the challenge is how to preserve user profiles, content and communities while seamlessly moving them to SharePoint with minimal impact to users.

As the social-platform market matures, users are presented with a growing number of feature-rich solutions for setting up a secure social network within their organization. Without a migration solution, companies that have already established a social ecosystem and want to move to a new platform risk losing valuable social data and disrupting the productivity of their end users.
